SUNDAY MUSIC AT THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

If it be true, as the poet says it is—"There are sermons in stones, books in running brooks, and good in everything," then the idea of those in charge of the evening services at the Congregational church, that good music is distinctly religious is correct.

Sunday evening at 7:30 p. m., the following program was rendered at the church.

Prelude, Fallet D'Anvers	Elder Miss Alice Gray.
Chorus, "In Perfect Peace at Close of Day"	Schumann
Solo, "Hear Me O Lord," from Oratorio of Abraham	Schor Mr. J. Hammer.
Violin solo, "Cradle Song"	Schubert Miss Dora Smith.
Chorus, "I Waited for the Lord"	Mendelssohn
Solo, "The Peace of God"	Gounod Miss A. Rosalie Holberg.
Duet, "The Crucifix"	Faure Messrs. R. J. Hammer and Herbert Aldrich.
Offertory, "Nocturne, E Flat"	Chopin Miss Alice Gray.
Chorus, "He Watched Over Israel" from Oratorio Elijah	Mendelssohn
Postlude, "O Sharp Minor"	Chopin Miss Alice Gray.

The selections for this program are from the world's greatest composers and gave a wide range of music. This is the first full evening that the choir of this church has given and it will be repeated about once a month during the winter.

REV. SAMUEL BLAIR MEETS OLD FRIENDS

Rev. Samuel Blair, pastor of the local Methodist church twelve years ago, occupied his old pulpit yesterday morning, delivering a sermon on the subject of "Modern Faith." In the course of the sermon, he said that the people of the world, though far removed from the inquisition period, are still bound too much by medieval theology and are narrow-minded in many respects. "Our Idea of God," he continued, "needs enlarging, so that we will no longer consider Him only as a king, but as a father."

"We fail to realize that sin is not only individual but social, and that many people are pressed into sin because of circumstances for which we ourselves are responsible, and might prevent, if they were more watchful of opportunities to do good."

While in the city Rev. Blair was greeted by many members of his old congregation.

CONFERENCE OF THE WEBER STAKE ON SUNDAY

The quarterly conference of the Weber stake was held yesterday in the Tabernacle, the auditorium being filled to its capacity at both sessions. The principal speakers of the day were Apostle Joseph F. Smith, Jr., and Elder Seymour B. Young, senior president of the first seven presidents of Seventy. The report of the stake presidency was read by President John Watson and remarks were made by Presidents L. W. Shurtliff and Alva Scoville and Bishop Martin P. Brown of the Roy ward.

At the morning session, the following musical program was rendered under the direction of Joseph Ballantyne:

Hymn, "We Thank Thee, O God, for a Prophet"	Choir and Congregation.
Instrumental trio, "Serenade"	Titi Leith Pearson, cello; Axel Nylander, flute; Sam F. Whitaker, organ.
Chorus, "I Shall Not Pass Again This Way"	Tabernacle Choir.
Solo, "The Palms"	Miss Lenore Hinckley.
Solo and chorus, "Hosanna"	Agnes Warner and Choir.

The invocation was offered by Elder James W. Ure, Sr., and following a brief address of welcome by President Shurtliff, President Watson submitted the quarterly report of the stake presidency. In part, he said: "Since our last quarterly conference, we regret to have had to record the death of our beloved President Charles F. Middleton, on August 3, 1915, who for thirty-seven years had been a counselor in the stake presidency."

"On August 30, Elder John Watson was set apart as first counselor and Alva L. Scoville, as second counselor to President Lewis W. Shurtliff."

"Elder Willard D. Ellis has been appointed as chairman of the high council committee; Joseph E. Wright and Murray K. Jacobs have been set apart as alternate members of the high council."

"We are holding our weekly meetings of the presidency, high council and auxiliary stake boards, at which meetings preparations are made and matters considered for the welfare of the different organizations, and we appreciate the earnest labors of the various boards."

"The ward teachers' committee of the high council has devoted much time to its work, and has succeeded with the aid of the bishops and ward teachers in obtaining a greater percentage of visits to the families in their respective wards. The efficiency of teaching has also greatly improved and the average of visits made during the past three months was 95 per cent. We have 1948 families in the stake, or a population of about 9000, and the health of the people is good."

Attendance on Duties.
In concluding the report, President Watson expressed the deep regret of the presidency at the death of Patriarch H. C. Jacobs.

Following the reading of the report, President Alva Scoville addressed the congregation, his theme being "Regularly in Attendance on Duties," and "The Need of a Return to the Old-time Spirit of Cleanliness in Social Activities."

"This is a rush age in which we live," he said in opening his address. "It is time that we should consider who we are and what we were sent on earth to do." Continuing, he laid much stress on the necessity for regular attendance at the different meetings of the church, saying that no appreciable benefits would accrue to the members by attending and participating in the discussion of one lesson, and then missing one or more. "Regularly in all the right activities of life," the speaker stated further, "is the greatest thing in the world for development."

Record to Be Made.
Mention of the movement that is to be inaugurated in the Weber stake for the taking an individual census of its members, with a record of the part each one is taking in church work, was made by President Scoville. This is to be, he said, to fulfill the purpose of the church, which was to levy upon each member a small degree of effort in order to give them the opportunity to progress and to assist others.

Social to Be Given.

In concluding his talk, the new member of the stake presidency referred to the evils that are creeping into the amusements of the young people, not only in public places, but in the wards, and stated that he hoped to see a return to the decorum of the old days in the social life of the stake. In this connection, he announced that on December 5, under the auspices of the stake presidency, high council and auxiliary association stake boards, that an oldtime social and dancing party would be given in the Berthana hall. "This affair," he said, "is to be entirely informal and it is desired that every person in the stake who can possibly do so, attend. If there is anyone who cannot afford the price of admission, they can apply to their ward bishop and receive a ticket without cost."

Bishop Martin P. Brown made a brief talk, saying that he found much pleasure in his work among the people and exhorted his hearers to be diligent in their labors as there was as great a work for the teachers to do at home as for the missionaries to do abroad.

President Shurtliff spoke for a few minutes upon the need for the improvement of the standard of amusements, stating that he hoped again to see the time when the people of the wards could find satisfaction in home planned entertainments.

Apostle Smith.

The closing talk was made by Apostle Joseph F. Smith, Jr., his remarks being a powerful exhortation to the ward teachers to continue faithful in their work, making efficiency, rather than a perfect percentage of visits, their aim. He also explained many ways in which the methods of teaching could be improved upon, stating that above all, that the teachers should conduct the meetings with the people in their homes in a way similar to the other meetings of the church, so that the teaching of the gospel would be uppermost in their minds.

The benediction was pronounced by Patriarch Arthur M. Rawson, the meeting being adjourned early in order for the stake and visiting authorities to attend the funeral of Patriarch H. C. Jacobs.

At the afternoon service, the following musical program was rendered, each number being much appreciated:

Organ prelude, "In the Twilight"	Harker
Hymn, "An Angel From on High"	Choir.
Duet and chorus, "When I Can Read My Title Clear"	Bessie Blair, Agnes Warner and Choir.
Solo and chorus, "Gospel Restoration"	Agnes Warner and Choir.
Chorus, "Don't You Mind the Sorrows"	Choir.

Invocation Offered.

The invocation was offered by Elder James Barlow and the first speaker was President Seymour B. Young. In opening his sermon, President Young said: "The Gospel today calls forth our admiration and requires from us the best endeavors of our lives to continue in the service of God and to each other. We should not only be hearers of the 'word,' but doers of it."

Speaking further, he said that many good men had made sacrifices for the benefit of humanity, and, continuing on this theme, he reviewed the sufferings of the Christ during his brief mission on earth. In his further remarks, the speaker told of the birth of the Saviour as given in the bible, of His subsequent appearance to the people of this continent as related in the Book of Mormon and later to the Prophet Joseph Smith, according to the history of the Mormon church. He also spoke in detail of the restoration of the Gospel to the latter day prophet, of the organization of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and of the delivery of the keys of the kingdom to Joseph Smith.

These keys, he said, were placed with the quorum of the twelve apostles by the prophet to remain with them for all time. Brigham Young, he declared further, in the great work of leading the people to the west and establishing them in Utah, had but carried out the inspired instructions of the Prophet Joseph.

In conclusion, Elder Young referred to the present prosperity of the people saying that the Mormons were always home builders, which was in line with the spirit of the gospel. The church, he said, was never in better condition and the people were living closer than ever to the laws of the gospel.

Experiences in Nauvoo.

A few interesting remarks concerning personal experiences in Nauvoo prior to and at the time of the exodus, by President L. W. Shurtliff, followed the sermon of President Young and the remainder of the time was occupied by Apostle Smith.

The apostle's sermon was relative to the instructions given at the general priesthood meeting at the recent semi-annual conference of the church held in Salt Lake City. He agreed with Elder Young, he said, that the church was in better condition than ever before and stated that the reason was because the organization was working better. Continuing, he exhorted the congregation to keep awake to their duties, saying that faith destroying influences were at work and today had to face many new conditions. He decried the present day temper of public amusements, specifically referring to the "modern" dance and different types of motion pictures together with the dangers to the young people in the places where these types of amusements are to be found. "The church authorities now," he said, "are as ever, absolutely opposed to 'round' dancing, but inasmuch as it cannot be eliminated, it is highly important that it be kept within the bounds of propriety."

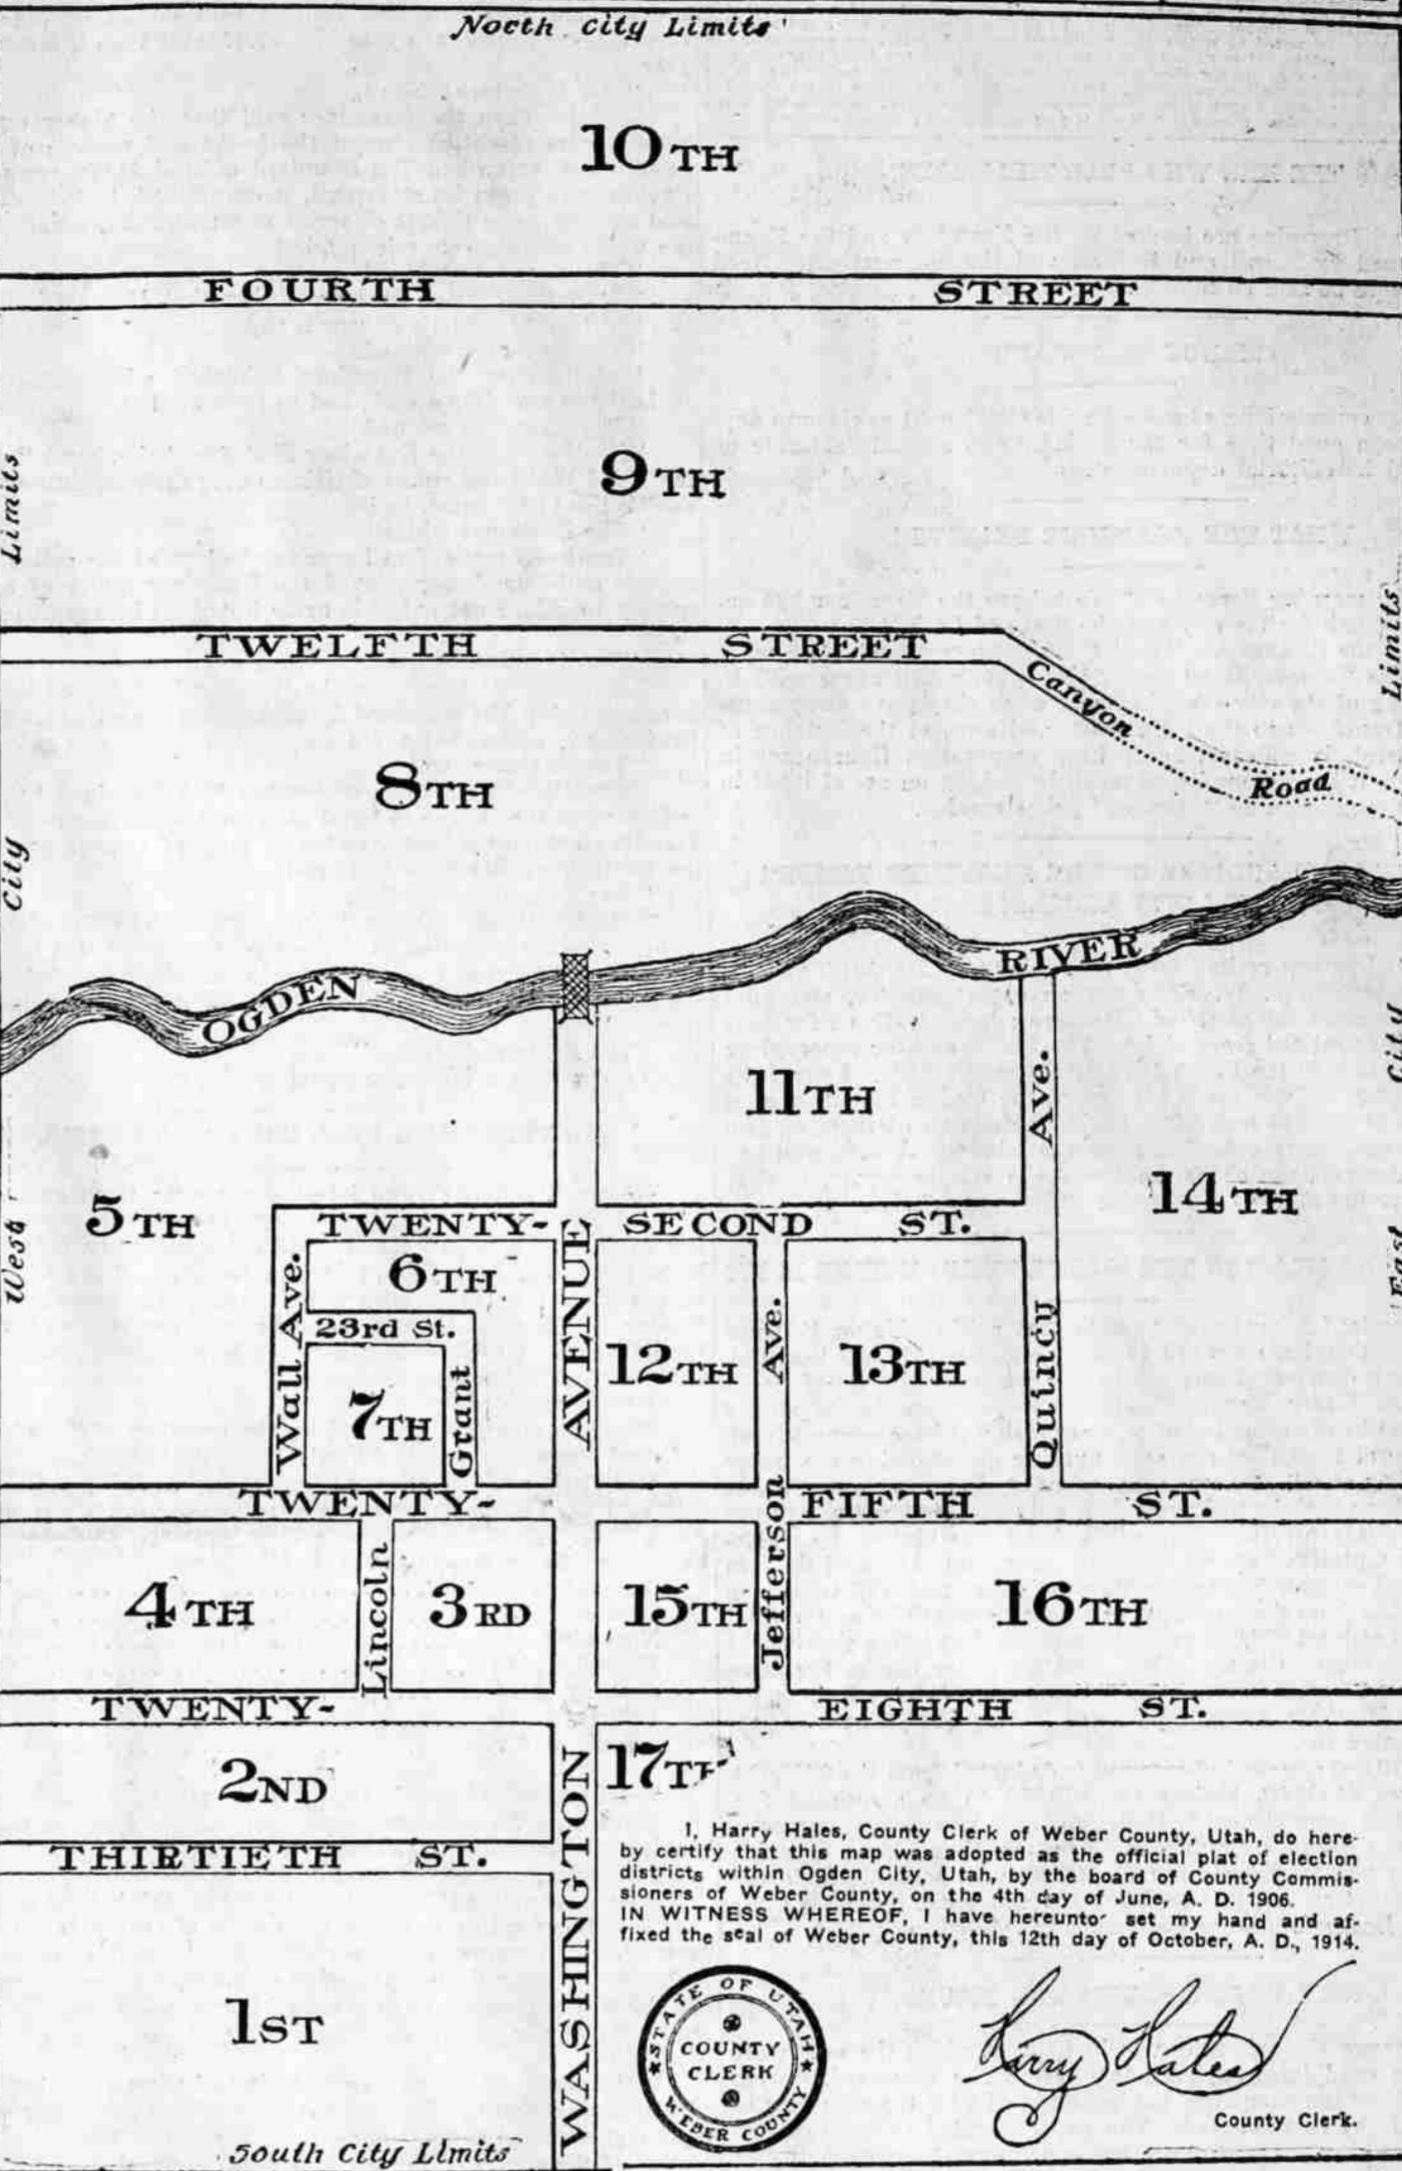

Speaking further, he advocated the attendance of parents at the parties of the young people that they might watch back the control of their children, which appeared to be fast becoming lost.

In conclusion, Apostle Smith said that the Lord would not do anything for man that he could do for himself and predicted the coming of a time when everyone would know his duty and do it.

The benediction was pronounced by Bishop D. H. Ensign.

TEN TRAPPERS SENT OUT BY FOREST SERVICE

George E. Holman, of American Fork, recently appointed inspector in charge of the predatory animal extermination work in Utah which is being conducted by the United States biological survey, visited Ogden Saturday for the purpose of conferring with local forestry officials and perfecting plans for the winter trapping campaign which will be conducted on the principal Utah winter sheep ranges.

Mr. Holman advised the foresters that he had been authorized to employ twelve trappers immediately. According to arrangements which have been tentatively made, four of these men will begin their operations on the West Desert winter ranges in Millard, Beaver and Iron counties, two to San Pete and Juab, two to Carbon and Emery counties, and two to the Trumbull mountain country.

Mr. Holman left Ogden yesterday for a general trip over the southern part of the state. During his travels he will equip the trapping parties and direct their initial work. Before leaving for the field he will also confer with Secretary McClure, of the National Wool Growers' association, for the purpose of securing such information as may be available regarding locations in which the depredations of predatory wild animals are most serious.

FOREST SERVICE PERSONAL NOTES

Charles A. Beam, forest supervisor of the Wyoming national forest, with headquarters at Afton, Wyo., was in the district office for the purpose of conferring with the assistant district foresters relative to grazing matters and other business pertaining to the general administration of his forest.

Mark Anderson, E. C. Sanford, H. W. Johnson, and A. E. Aldous, all of whom are connected with the office of grazing, have just returned from the Mantel national forest, where they have completed the grazing reconnaissance on that forest for this season. They report that there is considerable snow on the higher ranges, but otherwise conditions are similar to those existing in this vicinity.

Lots of men who preach charity, wait for other men to practice it.
